enforcement personnel and others who work to bring offenders to justice. As we recognize Domestic Violence Awareness Month, we are reminded of the important service these individuals provide.

Domestic violence has no place in our society, and I am strongly committed to addressing domestic violence and helping those who have been victimized. By working together with the YWCA of Northwest Georgia and its dedicated staff, we can build a Georgia where every home honors the value and dignity of its loved ones.

100TH ANNIVERSARY OF GEORGIAN COURT UNIVERSITY

• Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, today I congratulate Georgian Court University, GCU, on its 100th anniversary. For the past century, GCU has been a leader in higher education, encouraging intellectual inquiry, ethical professionalism, and community involvement. I am proud to have this institution in New Jersey, and it is an honor to pay tribute to its achievements

Court University was Georgian founded by the Sisters of Mercy in 1908 as a women's college, and it remains dedicated to the success of women today. The Women's College at GCU provides an environment conducive to academic achievement and offers a liberal arts education tailored to women's learning styles. In particular, GCU's Women in Leadership Development Program is one of the most powerful programs for young women today. By participating on university commit-tees, making presentations, lobbying legislators, and networking with mentors, students develop the skills and tools needed by today's successful women leaders.

In the 1970s, Georgian Court University expanded its programs and opened its doors to men. Over the decades, GCU has added buildings and faculty to meet the growing student population, which stands at more than 3,000 today. In addition to the original GCU estate, which has been preserved and is on the National Register of Historic Places, the GCU landscape includes a new wellness center, residence hall, chapel, and science wing that were all added in the last several years.

With 29 undergraduate and eight graduate degree offerings, GCU continues to develop new academic programs. Their new nursing program, established just this year, will help stem nursing shortages in New Jersey. Their accelerated and executive MBA program allows executives to gain the information they need to advance their careers, and as one of only 50 NASA Educational Resource Centers, GCU ensures that teachers have the most upto-date scientific information for their classrooms.

Finally, I would like to pay tribute to the service of Georgian Court University's faculty and students. Whether sending teams of students and staff to install water systems in poverty-stricken areas of Honduras or helping local homeless populations in New Jersey, GCU is committed to making the world a better place.

Mr. President, the students, alumni, and staff of Georgian Court University have much to be proud of as they celebrate 100 years of academia. I applaud GCU for its many years of service, and I wish the university continued success in the years ahead.

TRIBUTE TO MARY MARK

• Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, former Oregon Governor Tom McCall once said, "Heroes are not statues framed against a red sky. They are people who say, 'This is my community and it is my responsibility to make it better'."

Today I pay tribute to a remarkable lady who truly earned the title of "hero," because few individuals have done more in the past several decades to make the community of Portland, OR, a better place than Mary Mark. Mary passed away recently, and last week I joined with over 600 other Oregonians in attending a tribute service that honored Mary's life and legacy.

I first met Mary some 13 years ago when I was just beginning my campaign for the Senate. I had heard from many friends of the sterling reputation of Mary and her husband Pete and their status as two of Oregon's most generous philanthropists, but since I was from east of the mountains, I had not had the opportunity to meet them. And, unfortunately, the purpose of our meeting was for me to do something I hate to do, but which is a necessary evil for running for office—and that's to ask people for money.

It didn't take me but a few minutes into the meeting to reach a few conclusions—conclusions that have been reinforced time and time again over the years. First, Mary and Pete were two of the warmest and most gracious people I had ever met. There is a tradition here on the floor of the U.S. Senate where members refer to each other as "gentleman" or "gentlelady." We yield to the "gentleman from Iowa," or we agree with the remarks of the "gentlelady from Maine." There are some who believe the terms are quaint and old-fashioned. I do not. I don't think that manners and kindness and courtesy ever go out of fashion. And I can't think of better words to describe Pete and Mary as a "gentleman" and a 'gentlelady.'

The second conclusion I reached is that Mary and Pete were two of the keenest observers of the political scene that I had ever met. I always looked forward to our meetings, because I knew that Mary was going to ask me some tough questions, and I knew she would share with me her very perceptive opinions. To be frank, in our business it is easy to find individuals who will tell me what they think I want to hear. Mary Mark always told me what I needed to hear.

It was also easy to see that as much as Mary loved her country and her community, the true great love of her life was her husband, and their wonderful children and grandchildren. Mary understood instinctively that our success as a society depends not on what happens in the conference tables of Washington, DC, but on what happens at kitchen tables in every community in Oregon. And when Sharon and I experienced a tragedy in our family, Mary and Pete reached out to us with kindness and compassion.

Mr. President, the Greek poet Sophocles once wrote, "One must wait until the evening to see how splendid the day has been." For her family, for the community of Portland, and for Mary's countless friends and admirers, the evening of Mary's life came much too soon. It is my hope, however, that we can find solace in the fact that in the evening of her time on earth, Mary Mark could look back at a life filled with family, a life filled with generosity, a life filled with service to others, a life filled with making a positive difference, and say that the day had indeed been splendid.

May God bless Mary Mark, and may we all carry on her legacy by loving our community and by loving our family.●
